TONAPAH, NEW, January 1.-This town is in an ecstacy of Queensberry de-light over the Gans-Herman contest this light over the Gans-Herman contest this afternoon, and every man, woman and child in the municipality feels a sense of overwhelming pride anl a joyous consciousness that Tonapah is really on the map and entitled to the respectful consideration if not the envy of all other towns in the country. For months the ascendancy gained by Goldfield by reason of the Gans-Nelson flight rankled 'neath Tonapah's skin like a poisoned arrow, but all that now is forgotten, and Goldfield is regarded as a camp that had some fleeting pugilistic glory and is now a thing of the past. Joe Gans fought true to the "dope" to-day. After playing with Herman for eight rounds the champion landed a full swing on the point of Herman's jaw, and Chicago's favorite fighter went down and out. It was apparent from the start that Herman had little chance. Gans blocked his blows with ease and at no time was Gans worried in the least. The betting at the ringside was 3 to 1 on Gans.

In the first round Gans started to feel things out. Herman was willing to fight, but the champion stalled him off. In the second round Gans began to open up. Herman's attempts to land mostly ended in a fallure.

Like a flash Gans whipped left, and then swinging right flush on the point of the jaw, Herman dropped like a log, with his face buried in his hands. He lay motionless at the edge of the ring. Gans walked away. It was all over.

Nate Lewis ran around the ring to where the kild lay and begged him to rise, but Herman was senseless. At the count of ten Lewis and Adam Ryan carried their protess to his corner, where three minutes elapsed before he came to. In the second round the men were milling flercely when the gong sounded. Herman stepped back from a clinch. Gans, not hearing the bell, landed a harid right on the neck. The crowd hissed and hooted. Gans faced the crowd and made a public apploxy.

Not content with it, Gaus went to Herman's corner and explained that he had not heard the gongs. Hisses turned to cheers as Gans returned to his corner.

ENGLISH OLYMPIC GAMES. Stadium Seating 130,000 People to Be Erected.

to Be Erected.

LONDON. January 1.—The Olympic games, which are to be held in London in July, 1908, are arousing enormous interest, and England will probably be invaded for the occasion by an army of foreign sportsmen such as has never before gathered in any one country. The council of the British Olympic Association has now been constituted. The venue of the games is to be at Shepherd's Bush, on part of the situchosen for the Franco-British Exhibition, which will be held in 1908. Under an arrangement with the exhibition authorities, the latter will defray the antire cost of constructing the stadium, which is to accommodate 130,000 people, while the Olympic games will enloy a quarter share in the gate money during the week.

It has been practically decided to offer Olympic medals for competition in branches of sport which cannot be exhibited in the stadium. These will include ynachting, golf, ballooning, "aeroplaning," football and skating.

King Edward is taking great interest in the organization of the games, and will, it is expected, be asked to open them in state.
